

EMPATHY®

I am intuitively able to sense the emotions of others, with an understanding that attracts people and encourages them to express themselves.

Academic Life

- Choose classes in psychology or literature that will facilitate the study of human nature.
- Nurture relationships with classmates and professors.
- Join a club on campus that aims to help others, like the Help Line.

Career Goals

- Careers like counseling and psychology provide you the opportunity to listen and offer comfort.
- Consider working with children to guide them in developing emotional intelligence.
- Seek warm and friendly workplaces with a focus on people.

Decision Making

- Rely on those closest to you to help with your decision making.
- Trust your emotions, but employ someone with Analyzing or Strategic talents to reach clarity.
- Write down the ways that you feel about each option in order to focus your emotions.

Leadership Tips

- You are nonjudgmental and excel in management positions, where you treat everyone equally.
- Lead through encouragement and lift up those you manage.
- Take the reigns on a passion project that aspires to provide safe environments for those in need of help or compassion.

Relationship Building

- Become a confidant for those close to you and provide an attentive ear.
- Encourage and support friends by setting aside time to spend with them.
- Join a support group to lend your wisdom and warmth to others.

Extracurriculars

- Read autobiographies that give you insight into the minds and hearts of others.
- Volunteer for organizations that allow you to help the less fortunate.
- Study fields like psychology that will provide you with further understanding of the human psyche.
