

ACHIEVER®

I am a go-getter, driven by a relentless need for accomplishment and the energy and internal motivation to always stay busy and productive.

Academic Life

- Enroll in rigorous classes that challenge you to advance your academic career.
- Continue your education by achieving certifications in your area of expertise.
- Set stretch targets, such as earning a specific GPA, in order to give you goals to strive for.

Career Goals

- Make lists! Whether it's choosing a career path or working in your field, crossing off items will give you a sense of fulfillment.
- Working in environments that reward success will bring out the best in you as an employee.
- While you like to feel busy, you also need to know when your task is complete. Attach timelines to goals for defined progress.

Decision Making

- Your energy allows for action! You can afford to try things out before committing to them.
- Use lists to weigh the pros and cons of a situation so as to avoid putting your energy into too many projects.
- Though you often don't need motivation from others, don't forget to gain an outside opinion. A fresh perspective can help you when your focus becomes too narrow.

Leadership Tips

- You may tend to arrive early and leave late, so set strict timelines for yourself to avoid burnout.
- Meetings may be difficult for you since you prefer to act. Schedule them only when you must.
- Bring others into your realm of energy, and you'll often inspire them!

Relationship Building

- Partner with other hard workers so you can share in mutual successes.
- Launch new projects! Your energy and enthusiasm will be sure to inspire others.
- Remember that not everyone has your passion for project completion, so be sure to take the strengths of others into account.

Extracurriculars

- Join clubs that have members who share your strong work ethic.
- Elect to join organizations where your accomplishments will be recognized.
- Try to focus your ability for follow-through by setting up community engagement projects.
